Seminar- Workshop on how to Referee for Journal Publication

May 29, 2019 marked a new day for PLMUN Faculty members, as Dr. Valentino G. Baac, the Resource Speaker provided inputs on how to acquire practical bases for journal publication.

The seminar has provided The College of Teacher Education several instruments in pushing through the publishing of their researches. The attainment of grasping every research topics have connections to real life situations which can be indeed useful when applied in the study. These, will somehow lead to further discoveries which may not be yet figured out and could be very useful until it is proven effective in the findings of the study.

The speaker reiterated that once a faculty-researcher shows an interest to a specific idea, he may have the potential to do a new discovery. One of the primary steps that should be considered is to seek for more questions and find answers for the desired outcome of the study which will be beneficial to the increase of the extent of his capacity of knowledge considering also what others ought to know – a time to consider for the perseverance leading to a worthwhile study for the significant beneficiaries.
